I preti della missione a Torino. 350 anni di storia (1655-2005)

CLV Edizioni Vincenziane, Rome, Italy, 2005, 256 pages.

“The present publication commemorates the 350 years of presence of the Vincentian missionaries in Turin (1655-2005). Its history has had alternating situations. Knowing that, history can bring light to the present and give an impetus of faith to this work, which St. Vincent always attributed to the grace of God. Therefore, immediately after relating the synthesis of the history of the Mission House of Turin, we will present the Italian version of the letters that St. Vincent sent to its founder, Fr. Jean Martin. The decision to publish these letters in one volume is not only determined by the fact that they constitute one total body, preciously preserved in the archives of Turin, but also because they refer to the beginning days of the foundation. In all beginnings there is a freshness and freedom. In the history of the foundations, this spirit is unique and difficult to repeat. Yet still, this freshness and freedom are conditions that enable a community to renew itself and continue to be alive and fervent. The mission, characteristic of our community of missionaries, is in effect a proclamation of salvation to the poor that can never be standardized and, to be effective, must always present itself as a new rebirth. Going back to listen to the words of the beginning can help us to rediscover the missionary joy of our vocation in the midst of the complex contingencies of our secular era. This community is in the line of coming from nothing, pure will of God: the freedom is found in the heart. To relive the gratuitousness of pertaining to Christ is the source of each renewal and this we discover in the letters. We place these letters in your hands so that they can help us continue to preach the gospel effectively among the poor. The work challenges us to prepare our hearts, minds and strength in the hope that this missionary history will rise up once again.” (Presentation by ERMINIO ANTONELLO, C.M.).
